WOULD WITHDRAW ACCOUNTS

Following the adoption of resolutions by local German societies, protesting against the proposed $1,000,-000,000 loan to the allies, it has become known that many Omahans of German descent and sympathies havpersonally warned local bankers not to participate in the gigantic loan for twar purposes.

"We have told the bankers that if they have anything to do with the loan to the allies, we Germans will wthdraw all our accounts from the participating banks and put our money in other places," a prominent German business man stated.

Val J. Peter, German editor, says that in some cities of the country German-American societies have gone so far as to publish montlar warnings in newspapers.
